Practice Overview

Nathan is a highly skilled and experienced barrister, known for his meticulous case preparation and exceptional advocacy. He regularly handles some of the most complex and serious cases, including those involving fatalities, sexual abuse, and fabricated illness. Nathan is frequently instructed in matters that require detailed analysis of intricate or unusual medical evidence.

Committed to delivering modern, client-focused legal services, Nathan excels at identifying the key issues in a case, helping clients avoid unnecessary legal costs and focusing on what truly matters. Known for his approachable nature, Nathan goes the extra mile to ensure his clients feel supported and at ease throughout the legal process.

Nathan is consistently recognised in leading legal directories as a top-tier barrister. His expertise is also sought after by media outlets such as the BBC to provide expert legal commentary and analysis. His appearances on BBC Radio further showcase his depth of knowledge in the legal field.

In addition to his family law practice, Nathan has extensive experience as a Chair and legal arbitrator for various sports tribunals. Since 2014, he has chaired the Football Association of Wales National Safeguarding Panel and the Disciplinary Appeals Panel, and he was re-appointed to the Sport Resolutions Panel for 2024–2027.

Nathan has also served as a Family Law, Advocacy, and Communication Skills Trainer for Barbri Altior, a renowned legal training provider in England and Wales. This role has further enriched his knowledge of law and procedure, ensuring he remains at the cutting edge of legal developments.
