Practice Overview

---

Sam recently joined 30 Park Place after practising for six years in the North West of England. During that time he developed a diverse civil practice including a significant amount of paperwork instructions always completed to a quick turnaround.

Sam accepts instructions across most areas of civil law, in particular personal injury, clinical negligence, and commercial chancery, along with Court of Protection and inquest work. He endeavours to be as accessible as possible to professional clients and is viewed by many of his instructing solicitors as an extension to their own team, attending 'pleadings clinics' and conferences at solicitors' offices and being readily available to assist those instructing with any number of queries throughout the course of proceedings.

Sam accepts instructions on a CFA basis where appropriate and travels nationwide to attend court hearings.

Notable and Reported cases

Personal Injury

Fast-track and Multi-track, including:

RTA

Occupiers' Liability/Public liability

Employers' liability

Industrial disease

Injuries and illness abroad, including Athens Convention and Montreal Convention

Sam represents both Claimants and Defendants in a wide range of personal injury matters up to Multi-track. He is regularly instructed by the in-house legal team of a major cruise liner and has developed a particular interest in accidents suffered abroad.

Sam's clinical negligence practice mainly consists of Claimant work. Recent cases of note include a matter where the claimant succeeded in proving that she suffered an injury under general anaesthetic wholly unrelated to the index surgery. He often deals with cases involving complex medical causation issues and is instructed in several ongoing high value matters.
