Ffion Tomos is an experienced criminal barrister and a CPS Level 4 Prosecutor.

She is also a member of the Rape and Serious Sexual Offences (RASSO) panel and is instructed regularly to prosecute in serious and complex criminal cases across the Crown Court and beyond.

Ffion has acted as junior counsel in numerous high-profile, multi-handed drug conspiracies involving encrypted communications, cross-jurisdictional organised crime, and international importation.

She also prosecutes serious sexual offences, including non-recent and child sexual abuse, and has been instructed as trial counsel in cases involving the rape of children.

Alongside her criminal work, Ffion accepts instructions in professional discipline matters and has a growing reputation in regulatory proceedings involving allegations of serious misconduct.

Ffion is a fluent Welsh speaker and is able to conduct hearings and conferences in this language.

Expertise

Crime

Ffion is a Category 4 Prosecutor and RASSO panel member, experienced in serious crime including multi-million-pound drug conspiracies, organised crime and sexual offences involving children. She prosecutes and defends in equal measure and is trusted by instructing solicitors for her clear advocacy, meticulous preparation and skillful handling of sensitive cases.

Professional Discipline

Ffion accepts instructions in professional discipline and regulatory matters. She is experienced in proceedings involving serious misconduct and brings the same clarity, rigour and balanced advocacy she applies in criminal cases. Her calm approach and strong communication skills make her well suited to complex and sensitive disciplinary hearings.
